THE SPEED CRAZE.

It requires a calamity of the first order to direct attention to the enforcement of the laws. The recent experience on the Goldfield road furnishes a timely hint for officers of the law to do something more than assume a passive attitude. Right here in Tonopah there are speed laws and regulations designed to protect pedestrians from the maniacal desire of motorists to show how closely they can come to scaring women and children to death. Just for instance no attention is paid to the ordinance calling for the display of headlights and tail lamps. Drivers rush up and down hill through the narrow residence streets with total disregard for the safety of those who may chance to be in their way. The hilly formation of this district is accepted as an excuse for drivers rushing up hill at a rate of from ten to thirty miles an hour, but this is a mere subterfuge, as there is not a machine which cannot make the steepest hill on the low gear and at a slow pace. Main street at night is one of the chief danger spots to which the attention of officers is invited. Women and children from the shows cross the street at random and have to dodge machines operated by reckless drivers whose flights do not seem to call for any protest on the part of the police. Some time ago an effort was made to control the movements of motercyclists and a couple of lawbreakers were fined. This had a good effect and the same treatment administered to the owners and drivers of huge cars would furnish a salutary lesson.

In this connection the motorists are entitled to the same protection of the law. They complain of the pitfalls left unlighted on the roads leading from Tonopah and are especially emphatic in condemning the practice of house movers in leaving their burdens on the roads without lights to warn travelers. This would not be so bad did they not persist in the practice of stringing their double trees and chains along the highway after the outfits make camp for the night. It is not always that an autoist can pick up the chains and bars in the dust of the road and a single twist unlooked for may lead to serious accident. Some steps should be taken by the authorities of Esmeralda and Nye counties to reach an understanding on this matter to the end that danger signals shall be displayed by camping outfits that obstruct the main traveled roads.

TANGO STIMULATES TRADE.

CLOTHING manufacturers in convention at Atlantic City grumbled, as usual, about the new tariff, but when they came to compare notes they agreed almost to a man that business was never better than it is now. The cause of the boom is the tango. The dancing craze, they say, has worn out more clothes and has changed the fashions and has made people, especially the middle-aged devotees, more careful of their personal appearance; so their shops are running overtime and they are not feeling the effect of foreign competition. Whether foreigners can compete in prices or not is a debatable question, but it now seems clear that the foreign manufacturers cannot rival American designers in style. What was not mentioned, or at least what was not given to the press in the published reports of the proceedings, was how the people got the money to buy all the clothes they have purchased on account of the dancing craze. As the clothing manufacturers have been restricting credits and have been conducting their business in a very conservative way, the retailers must have had the ready cash and they could only get it by selling goods on hand. The only thing that seems to be worrying the clothing trade now is the possibility of not being able to get enough cloth for the production of the winter goods which are already sold.

Nevada needs more newspapermen and fewer publishers to place the press on a proper plane if one is to infer anything from the vitriolic attacks of the Elko Independent on the owner of the Elko Free Press. The latter recently charged legal rates for some printing, which was perfectly legitimate, and the latter, who was unfortunate enough not to be successful, opened his batteries of abuse on his rival for not cutting rates. Rate cutting has been the graveyard of journalism and the appearance of the Independent is all the argument required against the practice.

The captainette was standing on the deck of her noble ship, the Marie Antoinette, which was sinking, the lady ship having just met an iceberg. The captainette was directing the lowering of the life boats, and the passengers were pressing closely, when she drew her hatpin and held it as a soldier would hold a bayonette, and in a firm and commanding voice thus ordered: "Ladies, stand back; gentlemen and children first."

That was a hard Rapp the courts gave the amorous husband of Mrs. Schumann-Heink when the judge admitted his letters to a co-respondent.

It remained for the Reno Journal to establish Nevada as a maritime state with the grave announcement on the first page that the Hamburg-American liner Fuerst Bismarck had arrived at New Orleans from Nevada.

The falling thermometers around Reno may be accounted for by the returns from California registration, which shows the Bull Moose party almost backed off the boards. The registrations closed with the straight Republicans in the lead with a total of 290,776 voters against the Democratic following of 145,321.

Rumors of a special session of the legislature are heard at Carson City. God forbid. The only persons directly interested in such a session are the people of the capital. If there is any misgiving about the law concerning judicial elections Governor Oddie would be likely to have said something before this.

OPTION NOT RENEWED ON LUCKY DEPOSIT

COMPANY TO INSTALL PUMPING OUTFIT AND RESUME DEVELOPMENT WORK.

Leading stockholders of the Lucky Deposit Mining company, whose holdings are at the old camp of Aurum, White Pine county, Nevada, have declined to renew the option which they had given on the property and which expired May 20. The company is now preparing to resume development work on the copper section of the property. A gasoline engine has been purchased of the F. C. Richmond Machinery company of this city and this will be installed at once to operate a pump and keep the workings clear of the surface water that has filled them since the snow began to melt.

A "boat" road half a mile long has been constructed this spring from the main wagon road to the mine, and up this the engine and pump will be dragged and placed in position inside of two weeks. Development work as well as the extraction of ore, will then go forward steadily and the management expects to have a car of rich copper ore ready for shipment inside of sixty days. Development work is being prosecuted on the lead-silver section of the company's domain with very satisfactory results.

This property, while located in an old camp, is very promising, so much so in fact as to prompt the chief stockholders to decline the extension of the option that has been given a strong organization to purchase at a good round figure. Its location is something like forty miles from the Utah state line.
